

April 28th 2008

To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing this today to give my opinion about my Chistian radio stations. I am a single mother of two, and at 23 years old it is hard sometimes. I listen to KLOVE every day. Now days, everything else I hear on the radio normally has explicit lyrics that I don't want my kids to hear. Listening to KLOVE helps me raise my children without the fear of them hearing violence. There is so much that goes on in the world today, why not keep their innocence as long as we can. I am not only speaking for my children and myself, I speak for everyone I know, because most of them listen to KLOVE and other Christian stations. When I head about the FCC's proposed regulations, I cried. KLOVE and other stations help those of us that need the inspiration day to day. Why take that away from us? Is it really hurting others that much?? And if so, then what about the other stations that affect us?? I believe that everyone is entitled to their own opinon, but why take that freedom of opinion away from some and not all? I really believe that things should stay the way they are and have been. I can't tell you how much my family and thousands of others like mine would be affected by this proposal. Please, don't change our way of life.

Sincerely,

Jessica Nelson